

bitBrain !

Wednesday, 01 August 2007

Hi, I'm Henrik Erlandsson. You won't find the word 'Bitbrain' in a dictionary. To me it means a person that has a major part of his mind stuffed with digital information. That's true for me, the programmer - but I hope you think I've developed an eye for design also. I was given free reigns in designing bitBrain Studios' website and so, drawing on inspiration from the magical world of the Easter Island, this design is a paragon of weirdness.

bitBrain Studios is a small family company founded in 2004 during my 4-year program at Interaktiva Akademin, a Swedish polytechnic that taught me Web and 3D.

bitBrain Studios products:

- Web enabling PC software
- Small PC, Web and Console games - all aspects from idea to finished game.
- Useful PC utilities
- PC compilers
- Maya tools

Services:

- Website construction, design, and / or installation
Web hosting and domain registration with optional quick-start Webshop packages
- Web consultations and training
- 3D modeling and animation
- Software development

Â

Why not take a look at our references or works ?